to DOWSIL™ Technologies for High Performance Building

Dow Building Science is a global leader in the development of silicon-based adhesives and sealants for façade construction. As the boundaries of architectural opportunity extend, Dow’s innovative solutions make a significant contribution toward optimizing the performance of modern architecture.

Our silicone technologies for high performance façades are are designed to meet different needs and local performance requirements. Availability of structural glazing, insulating glazing and weatherproofing sealants specific in your region is detailed in the table below. For regional colors and container sizes, please contact your local distributor or Dow customer service representative.
